FIE is committed to a prompt and efficient response to any incident that would impact the operation of a programme. The Emergency Incident Response Plan is carefully reviewed on an ongoing basis by the Emergency Incident Review Group (EIRG consists of representatives of the departments and teams responsible for facilitating the Emergency Incident Response Plan and it convenes at least once a year). EIRG is also centrally responsible for communication strategy following a Major Critical Incident (MCI) in London.

Invoking the below procedure is at the discretion of Emergency Incident Review Group and the Senior Leadership Team Representative based on the assessed threat to our London-based student's health, and welfare.

The EIRG is headed by the EIRG Chair and the emergency communication tree is as follows:

EIRG Chair → Student Life Team Representative → Residence Life Team Representative
→ Administration Team Representative → Facilities Team Representative

24/7 EMERGENCY CONTACT NUMBERS

+44 (0)20 7808 0131

+44 (0)20 7589 0728

In case of an emergency, MCI or otherwise, students are instructed to call FIE's emergency contact number that is detailed on their FIE ID Card. The contact numbers are maintained 24/7 by the Emergency Facilities Support Team at Metrogate House. In case of an MCI, when a call is received reception informs the chair of EIRG or the next in line in his/her absence.

Communication Responsibility

There is one primary source of communication in all cases of an MCI. Communication with different constituents will be instigated, as necessary and as outlined below:

- Information communicated to Programme Administrators at partner universities and the Media will be managed by the Senior Leadership Team and in their absence the EIRG Chair and then (see EIRG Tree above).
- Visiting Faculty and Site Staff will be contacted by the Administration Team and in their absence the Student Life Team and then (see EIRG Tree above). Academic Communication with FIE Faculty and Visiting Faculty will be maintained by the Administration Team.
- Placement Site Supervisors will be contacted by the Experiential Education Team.
- Students will be contacted and updated by the Student Life Team and in their absence the Residence Life Team. Placement students who are about to or have already started their placement will be contacted and updated by the Experiential Education Team. This is in close consultation with the Student Life Team.
- FIE's Website, social media, and SMS messaging will be utilised accordingly. This will be the responsibility of the EIRG. The EIRG Chair or his/her designate will authorise appropriate website changes.
- Programme Administrators at partner universities for programmes taking place in the next calendar phase will be the responsibility of US Institutional Relations Team under the direction of the EIRG Chair.

Unexplained Absence of A Student During a Programme

Preventative Measures

- All students are required at the time of admittance to supply FIE with passport photos. One of these is kept on file in case of student disappearance
- Student files contain all necessary medical records and home/emergency contact numbers
- Students are informed prior to arrival that they are expected to act responsibly and have a UK cell phone for the duration of their programme. Student cell phone numbers will be registered no later than the first week of classes.

Action if required

If a student has not been seen, without explanation, for a period of 24 hours, staff will:

- 1.) Consult the Student Travel Form for information of travel plans
- 2.) Contact student's friends and flat mates to establish if they know of the student's whereabouts
- 3.) Inform the visiting faculty if applicable
- 4.) Contact all the student's instructors and (if interning) the placement site supervisor to establish if they know of student's whereabouts
- 5.) Contact last known address (if student is travelling)
- 6.) Contact police with description, photograph and last known whereabouts

If the missing student is found safe and sound, the incident is closed. If the student is not located or is discovered to be injured, see responses 2 or 3.

Injury To or Illness of a Student

An FIE point person or persons will be designated to co-ordinate information and communication to FIE staff, faculty (where appropriate), internship site supervisors (where appropriate), visiting faculty and the sending institution.

Preventative Measures

- All FIE programme students are required to be covered by some form of medical insurance, either from their home institution or through FIE's travel insurance policy
- During orientation students are advised about personal safety issues, such as living in a large city, security in the residences, avoiding travelling alone at night, recommended methods of travel, handling of electrical appliances in their residences, adjusting to London and UK traffic flow, dangers of excessive alcohol consumption, the laws relating to drug use, prompt reporting of medical problems and the availability of confidential counselling services
- All students are required to submit a Health and Wellbeing Questionnaire to FIE before the programme begins, outlining their medical history and detailing any medications required. Also, students are advised in the pre-departure communication to ensure that they bring sufficient medication for the duration of the programme and a copy of all prescriptions
- All students should also provide FIE with their personal health insurance details (e.g. Blue Cross/Blue Shield numbers). Once in London students are given a card that lists the emergency contact information for FIE, the emergency services and other useful numbers. Students are encouraged to carry this card with them at all times and to save important numbers in their mobile phone
- Students are provided with FIE travel insurance information
- In all residences, FIE provides a resident staff member to monitor students. All full time Residence Life staff have completed a First Aid training course. FIE maintains a 24/7 Emergency contact number and there is always a Residence Life Supervisor on call

Major Critical Incident in London

The importance of clear, concise, accurate and regular communication during times of crisis and emergency cannot be overestimated. All FIE communiqués and bulletins to students, parents, faculty, placement site supervisors, programme administrators and the media will be coordinated by the EIRG Chair or his/her designate. The language required to communicate with a population during crisis/emergency is distinct and must always be considered, employing a balance of authority and calm. This is more easily attainable when the source is limited.

Preventative measures

- For US Citizens. Prior to arrival and on arrival students are expected to register with the US Department of State <https://step.state.gov>. Travel registration is a free service provided by the U.S. Government to U.S. citizens who are traveling to, or living in, a foreign country. Registration allows students and visiting faculty to record information about travel abroad that the Department of State can use to assist in the case of an emergency. Americans residing abroad can also get routine information from the nearest U.S. embassy or consulate
- Students are informed prior to arrival that they are expected to act responsibly and are encouraged have a UK cell phone for the duration of their programme. Student cell phone numbers will be registered no later than the first week of classes.
- On arrival students are expected to act responsibly; this expectation is reiterated throughout orientation and includes but is not limited to:
 - Completing and submitting Travel Forms when intending to travel, detailing travel plans and contact information;
 - Updating FIE staff with changes to their mobile number and/or email address;
 - Checking their email accounts regularly for updates and information, and responding promptly with requested information.
- Following arrival, students receive an email reminder regarding personal health and safety precautions, which includes:
 - A reminder for US Citizens to register with the Smart Traveler Enrollment Program (STEP) through the US Department of State;
 - Information on how to locate local US embassy and consulate contact information if they plan to travel outside the UK;
 - The suggestion to consult travel advisory information published by the US Department of State and/or UK Government Travel Advice, along with information on how to access these messages;
 - Links to FIE London's Emergency Incident Response Plan;
 - FIE's emergency phone numbers.

Business Interruption

In the event of a major incident where Foundation House (FIE's London Study Centre) becomes not fit for purpose FIE has in place contingency plans to move to and operate from a temporary local location. FIE also has in place a contingency plan to use alternative housing in the event that FIE's designated student residences become not fit for purpose.

Counselling

In the management of all incidents outlined above the psychological component of emergency response is carefully considered and appropriate action is implemented where necessary.

□ FIE's Counsellor Psychotherapist has been trained in the administration of psychological support in the event of a major incident. Amongst the potential measures for managing the psychological repercussions of a major incident there might be:

- Sensitive and confidential assessment interviews as required
- Appropriate debriefings to students, staff and faculty
- Referrals to helpful agencies or specialists, including psychiatric care
- On-going individual and/or group support
- On-line support for parents, students, staff and faculty

□ A free counselling service is available to students throughout the year. In the event of a major incident, FIE provides appropriate individual and group support to students as well as staff and faculty.

Appendix 1.) FIE Staff – Leadership Responsibility – Excursions

INTRODUCTION

This document has been produced to provide practical information for FIE staff leading and accompanying Excursions.

This includes advice on planning, supervision, on-going risk assessment and emergency procedures.

Of course, rules and procedures, however numerous or comprehensive, are unlikely to cover every eventuality. When confronted with a situation not covered by this document, both staff and students should apply common sense.

Staff Duty of Care

All accompanying staff has a duty of care to the students participating on Excursions. They must provide welfare, support and supervision to all participants throughout the excursion/tour.

Group Leader

The group leader has overall responsibility for the supervision and conduct of the excursion with particular regard to the health and safety of the group.

SUPERVISION

This section aims to give more practical advice on supervision “in the field”.

Responsibility

The group leader is responsible overall for the group at all times. It is good practice for the group leader to:

- Ensure that all staff and excursion participants are aware of the expected standards of behaviour
- Exercise appropriate control of the group and maintain agreed standards of behaviour
- Be aware of participants with any special educational/medical needs or disabilities
- Carry a list/register of all group members with contact details
- Regularly check that the entire group is present
- Have a clear plan of the activity to be undertaken and its objectives
- Have the means to contact the group leader/other staff if needing help
- Have prior knowledge of the excursion
- Ensure the ratio of staff to participants is appropriate for the needs of the group
- Clearly understand the emergency procedures and be able to carry them out
- Assign an FIE (London and/or Dublin) Office emergency contact
- Consider stopping the excursion if the risk to the health or safety of the participants is unacceptable, and have in place procedures for such an eventuality
- Ensure that group staff have details of the FIE Office emergency contact

- Ensure that staff and the FIE Office emergency contact have a copy of the emergency procedures and know how to activate them
- Ensure that staff have the details of participants' additional support or medical needs which will be necessary for them to carry out their tasks effectively

Each participant should:

- Know who the group leader/staff are and how to contact them
- Have been given clear, understandable and appropriate instructions
- Participate in all organised activities/events
- Alert the group leader/staff if someone is missing or in difficulties
- Have a meeting place to return to if separated
- Understand and accept the expected standards of behaviour

Head counts

Whatever the length and nature of the excursion, regular head counting of participants should take place, particularly where there are opportunities for participants to become separated. Staff should carry a list of participants involved in the excursion at all times, preferably on their person. The group leader/staff should establish rendezvous points and tell participants what to do if they become separated from the group.

Remote supervision

The aim of excursions for some participants may be to encourage independence and some of the time on excursions such as trips abroad and fieldwork may be unsupervised. However, the group leader remains responsible for participants even when not in direct contact with them.

General

Participants who are involved in an excursion's planning and organisation, and who are well prepared, will make more informed decisions and will be less at risk. Providing information and guidance to participants is an important part of preparing for an excursion. Participants should clearly understand what is expected of them and what the excursion will entail. Participants must understand what standard of behaviour is expected of them and why rules must be followed. Participants should also be told about any potential dangers and how they should act to ensure their own safety and that of others.

Participation & Behaviour

Participants whose behaviour is such that the group leader/staff are concerned for their safety, or for that of others, should be withdrawn from the activity. On residential visits the group leader should consider whether such participants should be sent home early and liaise with the FIE home Office.

Information to participants

The group leader/staff should decide how information is provided, but must ensure that the participants understand key safety information. Participants should understand:

- The aims and objectives of the excursion/activity
- The background information about the place to be visited
- Basic foreign words where appropriate
- Relevant foreign culture and customs
- How to avoid specific dangers and why they should follow rules
- Why safety precautions are in place
- What standard of behaviour is expected from participants
- Who is responsible for the group
- What not to bring back either within the UK or from abroad, such as drugs, knives etc.
- What to do if approached by anyone from outside the group
- Rendezvous procedures
- What to do if separated from the group
- Emergency procedures

Transport and participants

Participants using transport on an excursion should be made aware of basic safety rules including:

- Arrive on time and wait for the transport in a safe place
- Wear your seatbelt and stay seated whilst travelling
- Bags must not block aisles or cause obstructions
- Never leave a vehicle without the permission of the group leader
- Never distract or disturb the driver or impede the driver's vision
- After leaving the vehicle, always wait for it to move off before crossing the road
- If you have to cross roads to get to the transport always use the Green Cross Code
- If you feel unwell tell the group leader/staff

The group leader/staff should ensure that participants know what to do if they miss the scheduled departure time.

Participants with additional support and medical needs

Every effort should be made to include participants with additional support or medical needs in excursions, whilst maintaining the safety of everyone in the group. Special attention should be given to appropriate supervision ratios and additional safety measures may need to be addressed at the planning stage.

Arrangements for taking medication and ensuring sufficient supplies for residential visits may be required, including safekeeping. All leaders supervising visits should be aware of participants' medical needs and any medical emergency procedures.

Enquiries should be made at an early stage about access and facilities for securing wheelchairs on transport etc. If ramps are not going to be available in certain places, the organisers may wish to arrange to take portable ramps with them. The group leader should at an early stage assess whether manual handling skills will be needed and, if so, whether training should be sought.

All leaders supervising the excursion should talk through any concerns they may have about their ability to support the participant. Extra help should be requested if necessary, e.g. a care assistant.

The group leader should check that the insurance policy covers staff and participants with pre-existing medical needs.

EXCURSIONS ABROAD

Planning and preparation

It is good practice that an exploratory visit to the location should be made, wherever possible. If this cannot be done, the group leader/staff should gather as much information as possible on the area to be visited/facilities from:

- The provider
- The UK Home Office
- Other establishments which have used the facilities/been to the area
- The local authority/establishments in the area to be visited
- National travel offices in the UK/Ireland
- Embassies/consulates
- Travel agents/tour operators
- Internet, books and magazines

Preparing participants for visits abroad

Factors to consider include:

- Language – particularly common phrases
- Culture e.g. body language, rules and regulations of behaviour, dress codes, local customs, attitudes to gender etc.
- Drugs, alcohol usage
- Food and drink – group members should be warned of the dangers of drinking tap water in certain countries. In some countries it is safer to drink bottled water, and care needs to be taken with raw vegetables, salads and unpeeled fruit, raw shellfish, underdone meat or fish and the use of ice cubes in cold drinks
- Money – how to carry money and valuables discreetly e.g. money belts, zip armlets
- If larger amounts of money will be needed, it is advisable to take travellers' cheques
- How to use phones abroad, money required and the code for phoning home
- What to do in an emergency

Visas/passports

The group leader should ensure that all members of the group have valid passports and visas (if appropriate) in the early stages of planning the trip. Photocopies of the group's passports should be taken for emergency use.

Language abilities

One of the leaders with the group, staff or guide, should be able to speak and read the language of the visited country.

Paperwork

The group leader should ensure that they obtain and take with them:

Travel tickets, passports and visas. It is also advisable to carry a separate list of the numbers of any travel documents/passports, and photocopies of all the group's documents

- A copy of the contract with the hotel
- Medical papers and significant medical histories
- Copies of a list of group members and their details
- Details of insurance arrangements and the company's telephone number
- The name, address and telephone number of the group's accommodation
- Location of local hospital/medical services
- Passport size photographs of the participants

Information retained by FIE Office emergency contact

Full details of the visit should be retained by FIE Office emergency contact while the visit is in progress. This should include:

- The itinerary and contact telephone number/address of the group
- A list of group members and their details
- Copies of travel documents, insurance documents, medical papers
- A copy of the contract with the hotel

EMERGENCIES

The group leader must ensure that all members of the group know what action to take if there is a problem.

The group leader and supervisors should know where the nearest British Embassy or Consulate is located and the telephone number. They should also know and understand how to contact the emergency services in the country concerned.

Emergency procedures

Leaders in charge of participants during an excursion have a duty of care to make sure that the participants are safe and healthy. They also have a common law duty to act as a reasonably prudent parent would. Leaders should not hesitate to act in an emergency and to take life-saving action in an extreme situation.

If an accident happens, the priorities are to:

- Assess the situation
- Safeguard the uninjured members of the group
- Attend to the casualty
- Inform the emergency services and everyone who needs to know of the incident

Who will take charge in an emergency?

The group leader would normally take charge in an emergency and would need to ensure that emergency procedures are in place. The group leader should liaise with FIE Office emergency contact. Emergency procedures framework during the visit

If an emergency occurs on an excursion the main factors for leaders to consider include the need to:

- Establish the nature and extent of the emergency as quickly as possible
- Ensure that all the group are safe and looked after
- Establish the names of any casualties and get immediate medical attention for them
- Ensure that all group members who need to know are aware of the incident and that all group members are following the emergency procedures
- Ensure that a leader accompanies casualties to hospital and that the rest of the group are adequately supervised at all times and kept together
- Notify the police if necessary
- Notify the British Embassy/Consulate if an emergency occurs abroad

- Inform the FIE Office emergency contact, who should be accessible at all times during the visit
- Collect details of the incident which should include: nature, date and time of incident; location of incident; names of casualties and details of their injuries; names of others involved; action taken so far, including where casualties have been taken; action yet to be taken (and by whom)
- Notify insurers, especially if medical assistance is required (this may be done by the FIE Office emergency contact)
- Notify the provider/tour operator (this may be done by the FIE Office emergency contact)
- Write down accurately and as soon as possible all relevant facts and witness details and preserve any vital evidence
- Keep a written account of all events, times and contacts after the incident
- Complete an incident report form as soon as possible
- Ensure that, although group members may wish to reassure parents etc. individually, they are discouraged from making direct telephone or other forms of contact in the immediate aftermath of an incident. At that stage full details may not be available and inaccurate information might cause unnecessary speculation and anxiety for relatives and others at home
- Ensure that nobody in the group discusses legal liability with other parties
- Ensure that no one in the group speaks to the media. Names of those involved in the incident should not be given to the media. Media enquiries should be referred to the FIE Senior Vice President – Operations

Appendix 2.) US Higher Education Laws

As FERPA, the Clery Act and Title IX are United States federal laws, they do not directly apply to FIE policies and practices. However, FIE recognizes our US based partners are governed by these regulations and is committed to providing related information as available to assist partners in their compliance with these laws.

It is important to note the United Kingdom may have different definitions for and legal classifications of the crimes out- lined in Clery and Title IX which impedes a directly comparative reporting. Additionally, information provided by local authorities may not align directly with Clery and Title IX requirements.

In support of FIE's commitment to professional development, any staff member interested in learning more about or being trained to respond to incidents and concerns regarding the below laws and policies are encourage to speak with the Senior Vice President – Operations.

Confidentiality

FIE respects an individual's right to privacy and is committed to supporting all members of its community with com- passion and discretion.

Within the roles and responsibilities of FIE's staff and faculty, there are reporting lines and notification processes in place, including notification of partner visiting faculty and site staff. These procedures not only provide as comprehensive and complete support to students and colleagues as possible but also comply with national UK and US regulations related to reporting of serious crimes.

These reporting lines and notification responsibilities as well as legal requirements may impact guarantees of ab- solute confidentiality. Therefore, anyone reporting an incident, particularly one of a sensitive or personal nature, is encouraged to engage in open and honest conversations regarding support, assistance and confidentiality to fully understand these responsibilities and regulations.

Partner institutions should communicate any further expectations or home institution policies regarding confidentiality, particularly with regards to Title IX regulations, to FIE's Senior VP – Operations.

Clery Act

For the purposes of reporting incidents to US partners, FIE uses the incident categories stated in the Jeanne Clery Act (20 U.S.C. § 1092(f): Disclosure of campus security policy and campus crime statistics) and as outlined by the Clery Centre for Security on Campus:

- Murder;
- Sex offenses, forcible or nonforcible;
- Robbery;
- Aggravated assault;
- Burglary;
- Motor vehicle theft;
- Manslaughter;

- Arson; and
- Arrests or persons referred for campus disciplinary action for liquor law violations, drug-related violations, and weapons possession; and
- Crimes ... of larceny-theft, simple assault, intimidation, and destruction, damage or vandalism of property, and of other crimes involving the bodily injury to any person, in which the victim is intentionally selected because of the actual or perceived race, gender, religions, sexual orientation, ethnicity, or disability of the victim

FIE will annually communicate with partners any incidents that occur within FIE facilities that violate the above laws. Please note FIE is committed to maintaining the confidentiality of persons involved in sensitive and personal incidents and therefore identifying details such as name, gender and home institution may not be shared with all partners.

For the purposes of reporting incidents that occur outside of FIE facilities, FIE utilizes the crime statistics reported by either the London Metropolitan Police for the Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea or the Irish Central Statistics Office.

FERPA

As designated by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) (20 U.S.C. § 1232g; 34 CFR Part 99), FIE will not release nor discuss students' information to a third party without their consent; this includes names, contact information, grades and academic standing, internship placements, and judicial cases.

Information that is shared as a matter of course with partner institutions and their on-site representative staff includes application materials, housing allocations, internship placements, transcripts and final grades, student welfare and behavioural concerns.

This exchange of information is in accordance with contracts between FIE and partner institutions and is specific to these contracts; FIE assumes partner institutions communicate this with their students in preparation for their study abroad programme.

An emergency incident and/or concerns regarding a student's health and well-being, be it physical, mental, emotional or academic, may constitute additional information being shared with visiting faculty, partner site staff, placement sites and supervisors, home institutions and FIE faculty and staff; information in these instances will be shared on a need to know basis and with discretion.

Title IX

In accordance with Title IX Education Amendments of 1972 (20 U.S.C. § 1681 et seq.), and consistent with FIE's policies regarding discrimination and equal opportunity, FIE prohibits any discrimination on the basis of sex or gender.

FIE is committed to fostering an environment free of sexual harassment, intimidation or assault. As noted above with regards to the Clery Act, FIE will notify partners of any incidents that occur that violate the law or spirit of Title IX.

FIE maintains a complete list of partners' Title IX Coordinators and, in the event a Title IX violation is reported while a student is on-site, will communicate directly with the partner's designated coordinator as dictated by Title IX guidances.

Partner institutions, visiting faculty or site staff who launch an internal investigation regarding Title IX do so with the support and cooperation of FIE.

In order to support not only our partners but also our students, faculty and staff, FIE will:

- Compile and maintain a list of partners' designated Title IX Coordinators;
- Communicate any known Title IX violations to the designated Title IX Coordinator at the relevant partner institution;
- Provide internal training on Title IX policies to current FIE staff and faculty;
- Train new FIE staff and faculty on these responsibilities and reporting lines during new staff inductions;
- Make our policies and expectations regarding all conduct, including Title IX, transparent and available to all staff, faculty, prospective and current students;
- Provide annual reports to partners in line with Clery Act reporting guidelines

In the event any member of FIE's community is made aware of or has reason to believe a violation of Title IX has occurred, they should immediately initiate the Title IX communication tree:

FIE staff member → Designated Referral Colleague → SVP – Operations → (if necessary) EIRG
